NAB Asset Management partner Redpoint launch new fund for retail investors

NAB Asset Management investment partner Redpoint Investment Management Pty Ltd has launched its Redpoint Global Infrastructure Fund to retail investors.

The Fund, which aims to deliver a long-term stable return for investors at a low cost by investing in a well-diversified portfolio of listed global infrastructure companies, has been made available to the retail market following its launch in the institutional space in 2012.

Redpoint CEO Tim Batho said, "Traditionally, investing in infrastructure has been the domain of large corporate investors like super funds rather than individual investors. Given the benefits of investing in infrastructure can include a steady income stream, inflation protection and diversification, three characteristics especially appealing to today's investors, it was compelling for us to make it available to the retail market.

"The Fund typically invests in 100-120 listed infrastructure companies from right across the globe, which gives us a broader universe to seek opportunities and importantly reduce risk."

Since inception in 2012, the Redpoint Global Infrastructure Fund has delivered net returns of 18.69% per annum*.

NAB Asset Management Head of Retail Sales Jason Huddy said, "We are pleased to be making the Redpoint Global Infrastructure Fund accessible to the retail market. Giving advisers and investors access to high quality funds to grow wealth and build robust portfolios is our priority, and the Redpoint Global Infrastructure Fund is another key addition to our offer."

The Redpoint Global Infrastructure Fund is available via direct investment and is also offered through the MLC Wrap platform.
